Briggs threatened to make trouble,

Ethel procured her father's revolver, a .32-caliber weapon. As soon as Hal-liday was out of sight, Briggs again demanded admittance. This time being refused, he drew a large carving knife from beneath his coat and cut away the the netting from the screen on the front door. He then smashed a pane of glass in the door, reached his arm in the inside, turned the key in the lock and threw back the bolt. As he started to enter the house, Ethel warned him that she would shoot. Briggs paid no attention to the child's words, and as he forced the door open the little girl fired two shots at him, both bullets lodging in his body. Briggs hesitated for a moment and then kept The child fired three more shots, every bullet taking effect, and Briggs staggered back and fell dead on the
